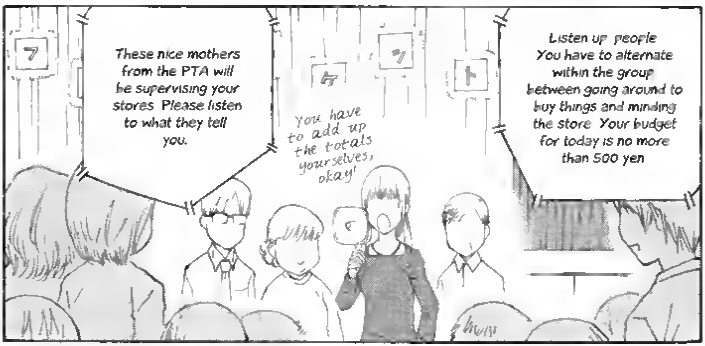
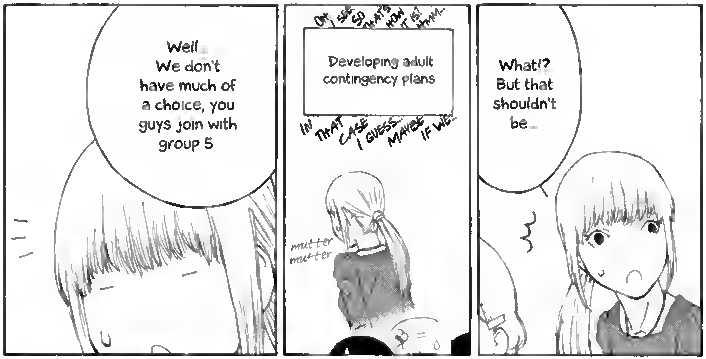
Today, our third graders are going to personally experience buying and selling, by holding a flea market

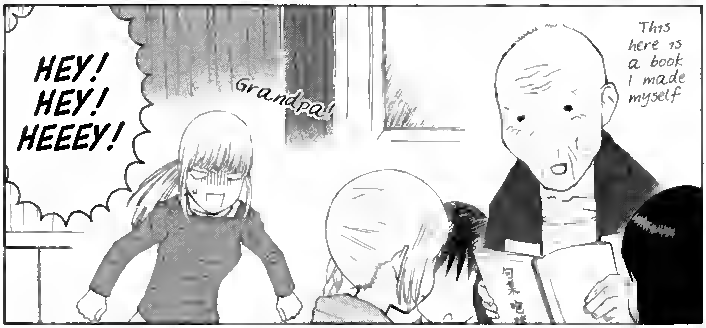


These nice mothers from the PTA will be supervising your stores. Please listen to what they tell you.
You have to add up the totals yourselves, okay!
Listen up, people. You have to alternate within the group between going around to buy things and minding the store. Your budget for today is no more than 500 yen

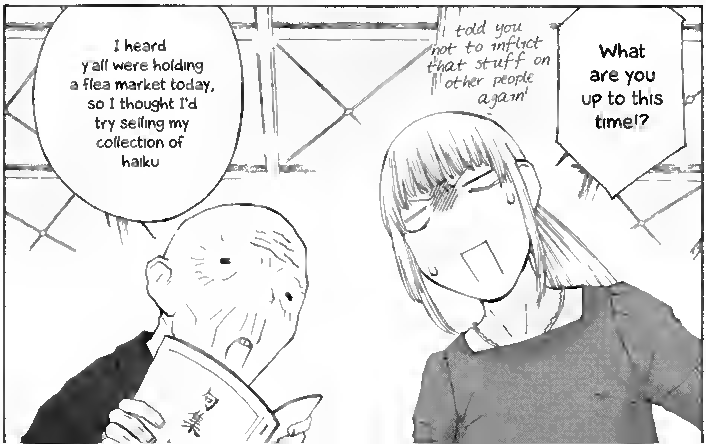
It doesn't look like the moms who were supposed to manage our store are here yet
Oh hey, group 6. Something the matter?
Sensei



Well... We don't have much of a choice, you guys join with group 5
Developing adult contingency plans
mutter mutter
What!? But that shouldn't be...



HEY! HEY! HEEEY!
Grandpa!
This here is a book I made myself



I heard y'all were holding a flea market today, so I thought I'd try selling my collection of haiku
I told you not to inflict that stuff on other people again!
What are you up to this time!?

When did you ?
Your collection?
I made them copies at the convenience store yesterday. A lot of work, it was

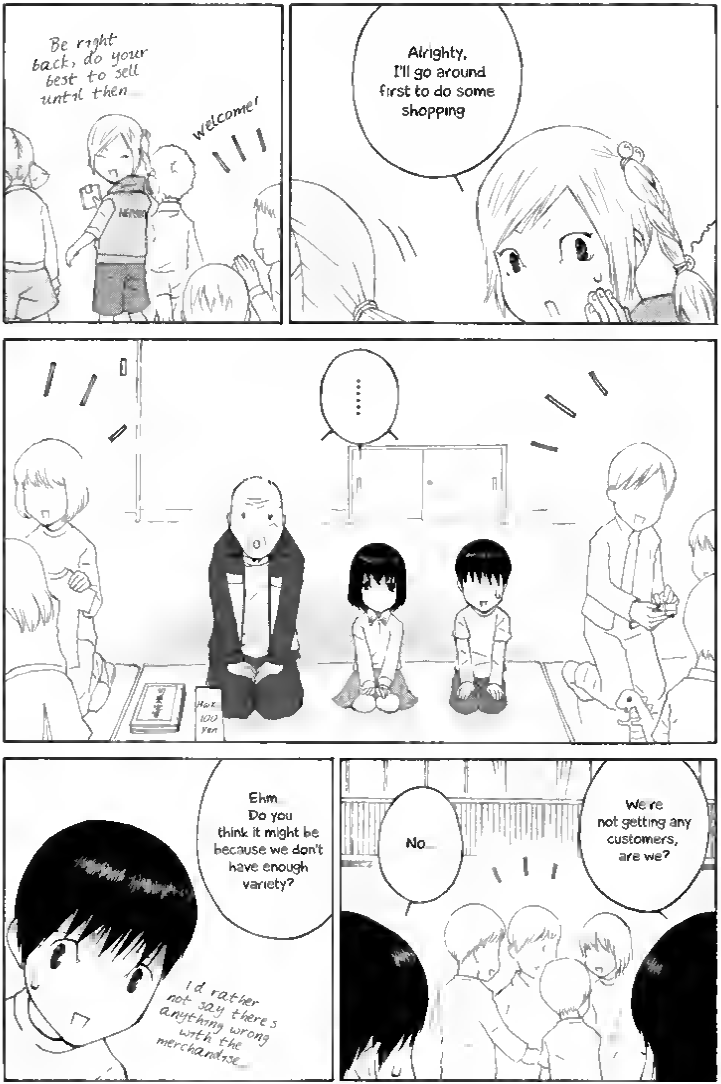
In due time, perhaps,
the final abode.
S-sensei How 'bout we just do this store together with your granddad?

<Haiku Howl>



Be right back, do your best to sell until then Welcome!
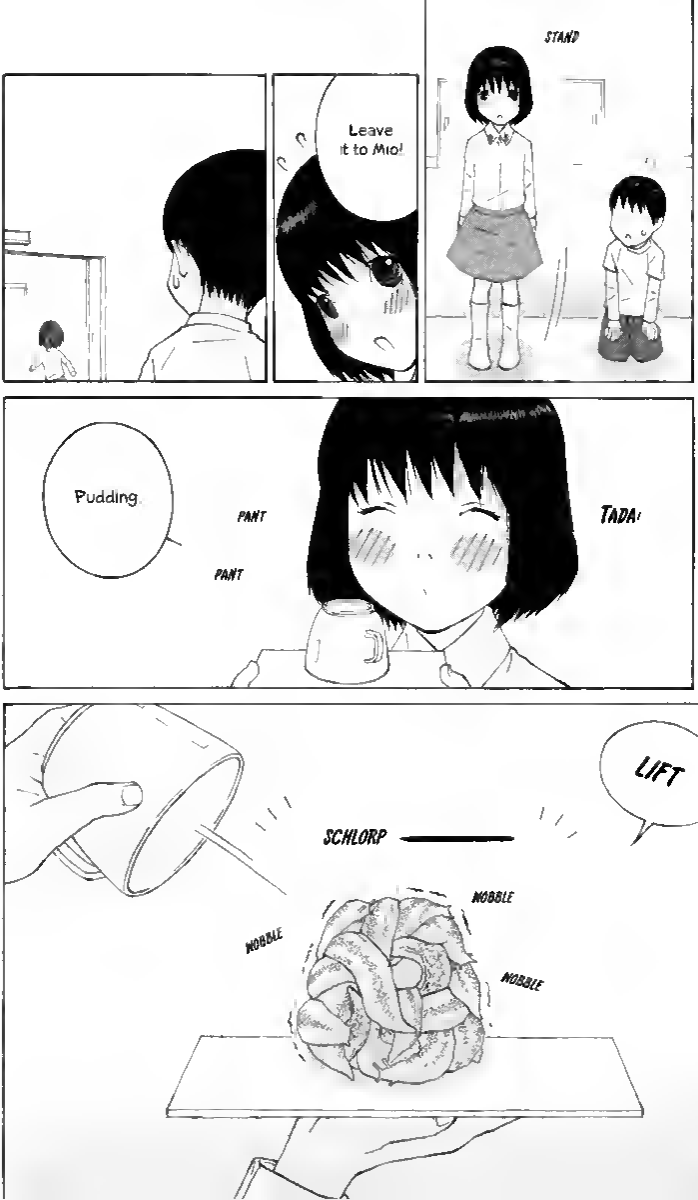
Alrighty, I'll go around first to do some shopping
Hot 100 yen
Ehm... Do you think it might be because we don't have enough variety?
I'd rather not say there's anything wrong with the merchandise...
No...
We're not getting any customers, are we?



Leave it to Mio!

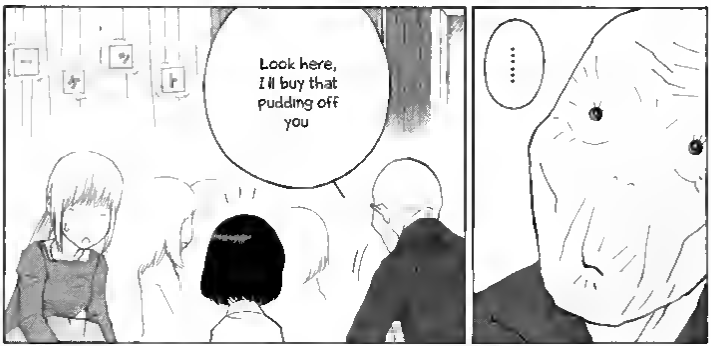
What do you think you're doing? This is an important activity supposed to help the students experience all sort of things first hand. It sure doesn't look like Mio's getting to actually do anything!



Look here, I'll buy that pudding off you

I sold something.
Don't mention it
Thank you, Senser's granddad.
10 yen...
Then... Mio will buy your book.

Never mind just come with me
The heck?
Pudding? With lots of snails?
Seems like things worked out But I'd rather not get involved
And thus, even Mio safely completed her shopping life experience Somehow I'm telling you, that's not how it works. It should be more like this and that and Much obliged. Even if it was just a tenth of that, Grandpa really appreciates your feelings.
